Compliance with the Batteries Directive (2006/66/EC)

Directive 2006/66/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of 6 September 2006 on batteries and accumulators and waste batteries and accumulators and repealing Directive 91/157/EEC, commonly known as the Battery Directive, regulates the manufacture and disposal of batteries in the European Union with the aim of improving the environmental performance of batteries and accumulators.

As specified in article 2(2) paragraphs (a) and (b) of Directive (2006/66/EC), restrictions are not applicable to products designed to be sent into space or for specifically military purpose.

As specified in article 4(1)(b), the restrictions placed on cadmium are only applicable to portable batteries and accumulators, that is (according to the definitions of portable batteries) to batteries and accumulators that are sealed and can be hand carried and are not designed exclusively for industrial or professional use. Batteries manufactured by MarathonNorco are designed to be used exclusively for industrial use; therefore they are not covered by this restriction.

MarathonNorco Aerospace, Inc is committed to managing the use of chemical substances in accordance with governmental regulations, industry standards, and customer-specific requirements in order to protect the environment.
